Climate change is one of the main concerns for local governments, as it directly affects the daily lives of citizens, especially during the summer months due to high temperatures. In this context, Plaza de Somorrotro in Segovia has been renovated with the goal of creating a more comfortable and safe space for children. The LUX element from the Berna line and the ROKO02 climbing element have been installed in the children's playground, designed to promote physical activity and motor skill development.

To counteract the heat, geovelas have been incorporated, which are shade solutions with textile architecture. These tensioned structures are perfect for fully or partially covering any type of outdoor space, creating cool and shaded environments. Benito's geovelas are the ideal solution to transform any area into a safer and more comfortable environment. Designed with high-quality materials, they adapt to projects of all sizes and styles, offering unique benefits and improving user experience.

At Benito, we offer customized shade solutions, like in this project, ensuring a fresh and safe environment for everyone.

El Perelló recently opened a play and recreational area with games for different ages.

It is intended to give a more specific use to this space focusing on children, who do not have their own recreational spaces in this area. It contains slides, see-saws, swings and huts for children to interact with each other.

In addition to the playground equipment, rubber paving, benches and fencing have been installed, giving El Perelló a new area for families to enjoy.
