Lavaur is a town in the department of Tarn, in the Occitanie region of France. BENITO has installed a pack of urban furniture in a park that includes benches from the Kube range and Omega bicycle racks protected by bollards and the Sol fence. The Kube bench is made of concrete, a solution for areas with extreme temperatures, a characteristic that the green-painted steel bicycle rack also has. It has been complemented by the modern Tomsk luminaires, which stand out for their robustness and durability.

The entire set gives an image of solidity with a sober aesthetic that adapts to the town, known for its Saint-Alain cathedral.
