The new ReBnew Park in Logroño, La Rioja, is an oasis of fun and environmental awareness created by BENITO. This avant-garde space features a unique combination of modular games, with pier, seesaw, and swing, all made with high-quality recycled plastic.
This Park has become a reference point for families seeking enriching and environmentally respectful experiences. Each element of the park is designed to stimulate children's imagination and motor development while conveying an important message about the importance of recycling and sustainability.
BENITO has once again demonstrated its commitment to sustainable urban design by creating the ReBnew Park in Logroño. This initiative not only provides entertainment for all ages but also serves as a visual reminder of the importance of adopting environmentally friendly practices in all our daily activities.
