

Campo de Criptana (Spain)

The Sierra de los Molinos in Campo de Criptana has new artistic lighting as a fundamental part of the development of the town's tourism strategy.

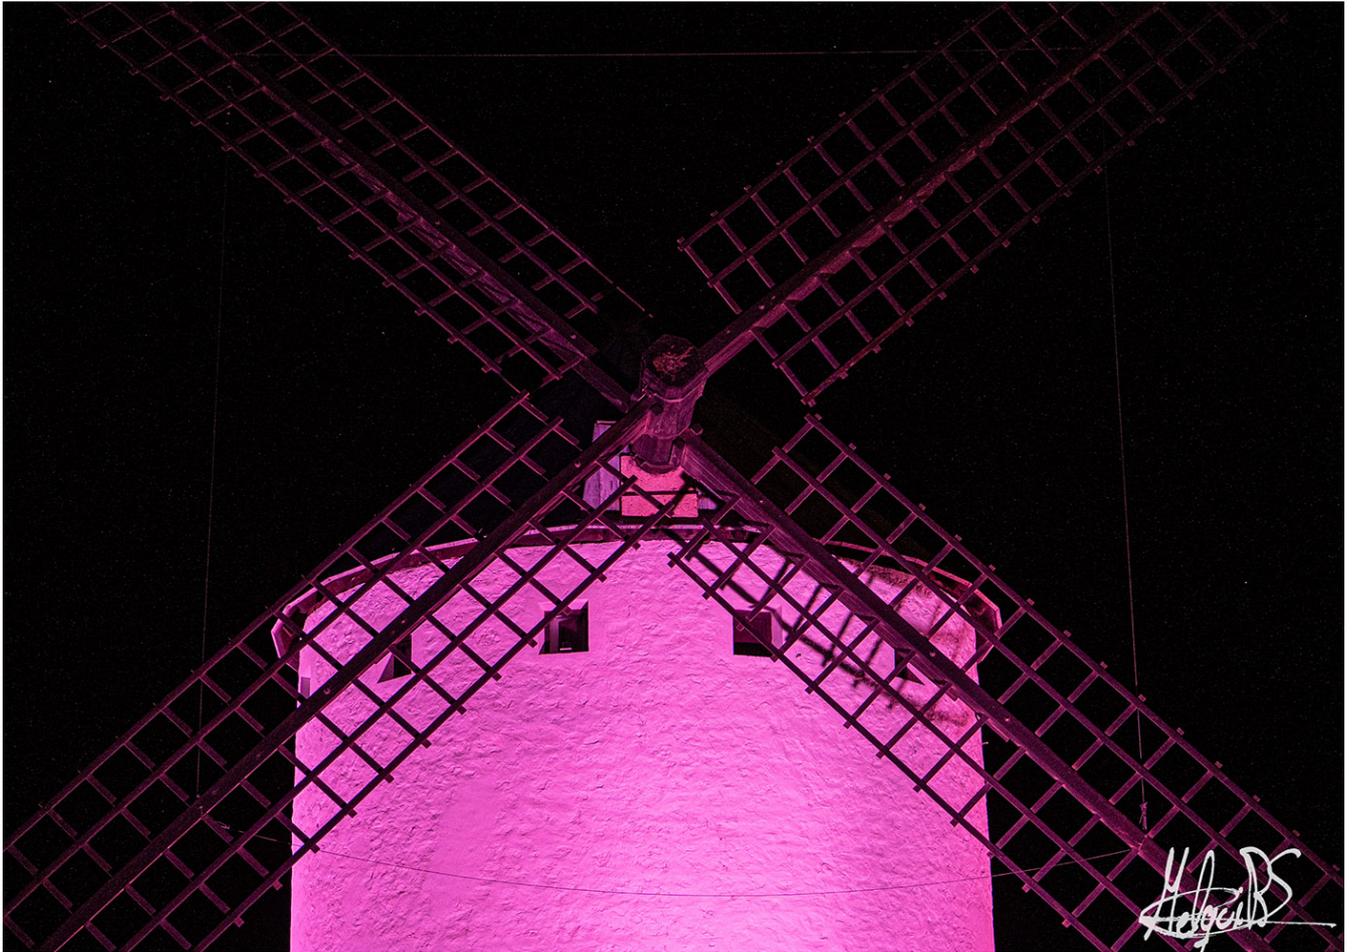

The Sierra de los Molinos, located in Campo de Criptana, is one of the most iconic tourist attractions in Castilla-La Mancha, and now, thanks to new artistic lighting, its beauty has been enhanced even further.

The giant mills comprising the Sierra now have uniform, medium-intensity lighting, which not only enhances their beauty but also reduces light pollution. This lighting is achieved through two types of LED floodlights, designed for outdoor and indoor lighting, and a Bluetooth Low Energy remote control system, which allows the intensity of the light to be adjusted according to the time of day.

This new lighting includes a range of colours from white to purple, red, blue or green. Automatic scenes have been scheduled and are controlled from the tourist office via a tablet and remotely via the 4G network.

The constant improvement and evolution of our products may result in some modifications of the technical specifications and characteristics of the products without prior notice.
