Fuerteventura, the second biggest island of the Canary Islands, is located 100 km off the northern coast of Africa.

It is a holiday destination well-known for its white sandy beaches and warm weather all year long, freshened by constant breezes. Cliffs ands protected coves share the spotlight with the several beaches that surround the island.

As the environment is characterised by high temperatures, the island required a bench resistant to heat, humidity and salinity with minimal maintenance.

For these reasons, the City Council chose one of the most popular products of BENITO: the Citizen ECO bench. This model is entirely made of ReBnew recycled plastic, a long-lasting, resistant and maintenance-free material.
