Need / Problem: The waterfront required an outdoor sports space that would encourage physical activity, well-being and active use of public space.
Solution: Installation of a complete Street Workout circuit with elements for calisthenics and functional training.
Result: An open, accessible sports area, connected to the coastal landscape, is created, designed for users of different levels.
In Santa Pola (Alicante), BENITO URBAN has installed a new Street Workout area facing the Beach , transforming the seaside environment into a meeting point for sport, health, and active living.
The program incorporates various elements of calisthenics and urban training, such as wall bars , parallel bars , monkey bars , a snake machine , an abdominal bench , a double vaulting horse , and mixed structures, creating a versatile circuit for working on strength, balance, coordination, and endurance.
The equipment allows for functional exercises adapted to different levels, from beginners to regular athletes, promoting an inclusive and dynamic use of the space.
The facility is completed with complementary equipment such as the Table Futtoc , expanding the possibilities for play and activity in the environment.
A project that transforms the public space by the sea into an active, healthy and accessible place for residents, visitors and athletes.
