In the city of Bucharest, Romania, the Kube bench/planter and Taulat tree guard have been installed in the urban center to improve the quality of public space. The Kube bench/planter, made of concrete, offers a comfortable seating area and includes a side space designed for planting flowers, helping to create a more sustainable, green, and pleasant environment for citizens.

Additionally, Taulat tree guards have been placed around the trees to protect the tree growth area and prevent people from stepping on the base, ensuring the health and optimal development of urban plant species. This installation enhances urban aesthetics and promotes respectful coexistence with nature in the city, reinforcing the commitment to sustainable, functional, and aesthetically pleasing public spaces for everyone.

The stadium of Al Wakrah can host up to 40,000 people. It was designed by the British-Iraqi architect Zaha Hadid and it is located 15km at the South of Doha.
This city is known for its commercial port as well as for being the entry to the state capital.
“An extraordinary stadium for an adventurous city.”
Modern, futuristic and functional, it is still loyal to the Qatari tradition. It integrates cultural references according to the weather conditions and functional requirements.
BENITO urban furniture has been installed outside the stadium. The selected option was the KUBE Collection – benches (UM372), chairs (UM372S), bins (PA672) and tables (UM372M), with straight and balanced lines, designed to embellish the area by giving it a contemporary style. They have a robust structure made of precast textured granite grey concrete, which guarantees a comfortable sitting experience even when temperatures get really high during summer.
Dalia bollards (H251) and several types of tree grates were also installed near the stadium.
